Aquarion Water Company Completes Greenridge Project

Residents of Brookfield's Greenridge neighborhood can now count on clean, pure water

BRIDGEPORT, CONN. – February 7, 2012 – Aquarion Water Company today announced the completion of a project to provide residents of Brookfield's Greenridge district with clean water. Greenridge's water supply was previously contaminated with uranium and other radioactive substances.

“Working with United Water and the towns of Brookfield and Newtown, we were able to complete all necessary construction for the project as scheduled,” Aquarion President and CEO Charles V. Firlotte said. “We look forward to providing Greenridge customers with safe, high quality water for many years to come.”

Aquarion constructed the main line for the project along Route 25, from the intersection with Silvermine Road south to the Greenridge district. Additionally, the company constructed a pump house on Silvermine Road. As a result of this new infrastructure, over 900 residents that live in the Greenridge subdivision will have clean water.

“We are delighted that we could help negotiate a solution that has been delivered to address Greenridge's water needs and we appreciate Aquarion's efforts in resolving this crucial situation,” Brookfield First Selectman Bill Davidson said. “Residents will now be able to enjoy clean water without any concerns.”

Aquarion serves approximately 2,300 residents within Brookfield.
